

Karate and Soggy

Once upon a time there was a panda person named Karate and an alligator named Soggy. They were in New York at a hotel and were walking down to the pool. When they got to the pool, they saw humans. They felt happy because they liked to do things with other friends.

Karate said, "Yay! We can have a party together!" Soggy said, "Let's go play and then go swimming!"

Soggy realized he needed a pair of shoes to go play. He asked Karate to come with him to the store.

Karate said, "I'm going get my own shoes from the other store. Bye!"

Soggy got mad and thought about how to get shoes for himself. He realized that first he had to find out what size he was so he headed to shoe store. Soggy was still mad at Karate, so he went to the other store by himself.

After they both went to the shoe store, Soggy and Karate were feeling sad that they were mean to each other. After getting their shoes, they went back to the hotel. They ran into each other at the front door and said sorry that they were both mean. Then they dashed to the pool in their new shoes to play and have a pool party all night!